

Thursday, January 4, 2007 (1/4/07)

Check homework from those who did not have interviews completed yesterday, and, collect any late Library Journal #9

Poems of the week - Poetry Wars

Blackberry Eating by Galway Kinnell

Quilts by Nikki Giovanni

Library - new books. We go again next week, so get only one book.

Return to class for review of grammar started the week before

Christmas break

Page 489 - in Writing/Grammar Book, Chapter 17.

Prepositional phrases, infinitive phrases, participial phrases.

In Class - stapled packet review. Use books to help/remind.

Test over these coming tomorrow or Monday.

Clause - has subject and verb

Independent clause - can stand alone as a sentence; contains a complete thought.

Dependent or Subordinate clause - cannot stand alone as a sentence, is a fragment or incomplete thought Phrase - does not have both a subject and verb, may have neither, and cannot stand alone as a sentence.

We are working with prepositional phrases, participial phrases, and infinitive phrases.